Anka qualified as a solicitor before joining Hiscox Syndicates in Lloyds' as an underwriter where she underwrote a wide range of risks for Syndicate 33 including professional indemnity, film and TV production risks and major sporting events such as the Olympic Games and Rugby World Cup.

She then started the Hiscox Enterprise Risk account and was at the forefront of early developments in the underwriting of both W&I and tax insurance, before joining Aon as a broker specialising in the same class of business.

She has led the placements of many of the largest W&I and tax risks placed by the Aon UK team and continues her interest in the further innovation and development of these products.
