Complimentary client events in November

We have two complimentary client events being held in November:

We are running a seminar on NEDs and the Takeover Code. It will look at the companies to which the Takeover Code may apply, the NED's role in both bidder and target, tricky situations that can arise and what the Takeover Panel can do if companies or their directors get it wrong. Crispin Wright, Director General of the Takeover Panel will be joining us. Taking place on Thursday 3 November 2016 from 8.15am.

We are also hosting an evening seminar as part of our M&A Insight Series. Come and join Luke Johnson, a serial entrepreneur and author, to discuss M&A trends, the US presidential election and Brexit. Taking place on Thursday

First Market Watch published since MAR's implementation

The Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) has published Market Watch (No. 51), the newsletter on market conduct and transaction reporting issues, its first edition published since the implementation of the Market Abuse Regulation in July 2016. The edition sets out the FCA's high level observations following its review of the market abuse systems and controls of a sample of registered market makers. We take a look at the review's key findings which are relevant to all firms engaged in market making activities. MORE>

European Parliament adopts amendments to the Commission's proposed revisions to the Prospectus Regime

On 15 September, the European Parliament adopted amendments to the Commission's proposal for a regulation to revise the Prospectus Directive 2003/71/EC. The amendments build upon the Commission's original proposals, published last November, to amend the prospectus regime as part of its initiative to form the Capital Markets Union. The draft Regulation remains subject to the trilogue negotiation process between the European Parliament, the Council of the EU and the Commission which is expected to conclude later this year. We take a look at the key amendments adopted by the European Parliament. MORE>
