

Spotlight on REACH Regulation

REACH full compliance

Manufacturers, importers and users of chemicals often operate across borders, sourcing and supplying their products across EU borders and operating with chemical substances in many different locations around the world. For manufacturers, importers and users inside the European Union, the requirements set by Regulation (EC) No. 1907/2006 concerning the Registration, Evaluation, Authorization and Restriction of Chemicals (REACH) are a decisive factor of corporate compliance: REACH establishes inter alia obligations to register substances and to observe requirements in the supply chain, and stipulates authorization requirements. The obligations according to REACH are diverse and highly complex in detail. Most of the times, chemical expert consultants can't do the job themselves.

The chemistry must be right

In addition to specialist knowledge of the relevant implementing regulations, guidances and national implementation laws – oftentimes involving more than one state –, responsible legal consulting in substance law also requires in-depth knowledge of corporate processes as well as a solid network to rely on in questions of practical handling of complex legal issues. Strategic decisions must above all be legally secure, but also financially and entrepreneurially responsible and practicable. With our longstanding expertise in this field and our firmwide network across the globe, you can get it all at once. On the basis of highly complex, deep level analyses across jurisdictions, we will provide you with a clear, economic solution that is simple to execute.

Our work

- Advising clients in audit procedures assessing their compliance with REACH
- Advising clients on a compliant setup of business processes and legally useful study designs
- Assessment of legal consequences of non-compliance on national level
- Deep-level analysis of (even unwritten or implicit) obligations according to REACH
- Interdisciplinary work with chemical expert consultants
