

Sam Dietle

Associate
Washington, D.C.

Biography

Sam Dietle provides practical legal solutions and regulatory guidance to all segments of the food industry, including manufacturers, restaurants, retailers, animal producers and processors, and their trade associations.

She advises clients on federal and state regulatory issues that arise throughout the entire food supply chain, including labeling and advertising compliance and claim substantiation issues, enforcement actions by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), litigation support, and drafting comments on proposed regulations and agency guidance. Sam also counsels clients in consumer products industries on compliance with Consumer Product Safety Commission (CSPC) requirements.

Prior to joining Hogan Lovells, Sam advised food packaging companies on FDA premarket requirements and regulatory compliance matters. Sam also worked with electronic cigarette companies as FDA began to regulate this industry. While in law school, she served as a judicial intern in the U.S. Court of Federal Claims, working on vaccine injury claims cases.

Latest thinking and events

- Hogan Lovells Publications

Phone

+1 202 637 5870

Fax

+1 202 637 5910

Email

samantha.dietle@hoganlovells.com

Practices

Food Law

Education and admissions

Education

J.D., American University
Washington College of Law, cum laude, 2015

B.A., University of Maryland, 2012

Bar admissions and qualifications

District of Columbia

- President signs 2018 Farm Bill with hemp reforms – implications for regulatory oversight of hemp-derived products including cannabidiol
(CBD) Pharmaceutical and Biotechnology Alert
- Published Works
 - State and federal food-labeling reforms impose unappreciated complexities and compliance challenges Legal Backgrounder