

Victor Barrientos

Senior Associate

Mexico City

Biography

Victor Barrientos relies on his 17 years of experience when advising multinational corporations in matters related to corporate and international law, infrastructure project finance and development, and cross-border commercial transactions.

He also advises clients on joint ventures and public-private companies, engineering procurement and construction contracts, license and technology transfer agreements, international financing, and other related issues.

Prior to joining Hogan Lovells, Victor managed the corporate international legal department of a major state-owned petrochemical company in Venezuela. There, he was active in complex negotiations for the development, construction, and financing of new petrochemical plants involving international engineering and construction companies, multilateral agencies, international lending institutions, and export credit agencies. He also negotiated contracts for the importation and exportation of petrochemical products worldwide.
