

On Governance: How will blockchain technology change organizational governance?

21 March 2018

The Conference Board

On Governance is a series of guest blog posts from corporate governance thought leaders. The series, which is curated by the Governance Center research team, is meant to serve as a way to spark discussion on some of the most important corporate governance issues.

Blockchain technology has been touted as a panacea for almost every business, operational, and economic issue under the sun. While many have become familiar with the word, in no small measure due to the global interest in the price volatility of bitcoin, the technology underpinning the cryptocurrency and its applications remain an enigma for much of the general population.

Read More: On Governance: How will blockchain technology change organizational governance?

> Read the full article online