

Kaitlin Welborn

Associate

Washington, D.C.

Biography

Kaitlin Welborn's practice focuses on civil litigation. She joined Hogan Lovells following her clerkship with the Honorable Jill Pryor on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit.

Kaitlin's significant pro bono practice provides her with broad litigation experience. From settling a landlord/tenant case to prevent a woman and her family from eviction, to filing a class action alleging violations of federal food stamp regulations, to drafting amicus briefs in the U.S. Supreme Court, Kaitlin zealously advocates for her clients at every stage of the litigation process.

Kaitlin's commitment to serving her community is longstanding. Prior to law school, Kaitlin received her Master of Public Administration degree from George Washington University. She then worked as a research analyst in education policy, coordinating the data collection and analysis for multimillion dollar educational grants. In law school, Kaitlin honed her management skills as the editor-in-chief of the Yale Journal of Law and Feminism and president of Yale's Law Students for Reproductive Justice.

Latest thinking and events

- Press Releases

Phone

+1 202 637 8891

Fax

+1 202 637 5910

Email

kaitlin.welborn@hoganlovells.com

Practices

Litigation Services

Education and admissions

Education

J.D., Yale Law School, 2015

M.P.A., The George Washington University, 2011

B.A., University of Pennsylvania, 2009

Bar admissions and qualifications

- Hogan Lovells Pro Bono team files lawsuit alongside the ACLU and Innocence Project demanding DNA fingerprint tests that could exonerate Ledell Lee
- Press Releases
 - Hogan Lovells successfully challenges policy limiting asylum to those entering the United States through ports of entry
- Press Releases
 - Hogan Lovells represents nonprofit organizations challenging new rule barring asylum eligibility for many migrants
- Press Releases
 - Hogan Lovells challenges new asylum policy

District of Columbia

New York
