Biography

Anne Salladin assists foreign and domestic clients in various industries in connection with matters involving national security and cross-border transactions, in particular before the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States (CFIUS).

Anne dedicated nearly 20 years of service to the Office of the Assistant General Counsel for International Affairs of the Treasury Department, which provides legal advice to the Secretary of the Treasury as Chairperson of CFIUS. As senior counsel, she was responsible for providing legal advice on CFIUS matters, working closely with other CFIUS agencies, played a role in developing laws and regulations related to CFIUS, and participated in the review and investigation of well over 500 transactions filed with CFIUS, including many major Chinese acquisitions.

In addition to her foreign investment work, Anne worked on government-to-government arrangements tied to the Mexican and Asian financial crises and worked extensively on matters relating to sovereign wealth funds. She also has significant experience in sovereign debt restructuring involving Argentina, Greece, and other countries. Anne was part of the G-10 working group focused on sovereign debt documentation designed to facilitate orderly resolution of sovereign debt crises.

Reviews

In recognition of her significant contributions during her Treasury career, in particular her work on national security issues, Anne received the Secretary's Meritorious Service Award. The award citation notes that she was "indispensable in helping CFIUS to protect U.S. security in dozens of complex transactions" and is "widely acknowledged as an expert on sovereign debt, and a key player in the U.S. efforts to secure global economic stability through the design of sovereign debt restructuring regimes."
