

Daniel (Danny) Mader

Associate

Washington, D.C.

Biography

Danny Mader advises companies on a broad range of antitrust issues, from conducting initial antitrust risk assessments to navigating clients through the merger clearance process.

While at Washington University School of Law, Danny was senior editor of the Washington University Law Review and interned for Judge Raymond Gruender of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit. He also provided legal assistance to St. Louis startups and charity organizations while participating in the Entrepreneurship and Intellectual Property Clinic.

Prior to law school, Danny worked in commercial lending as a financial analyst, managing a portfolio of auto dealership credit accounts.

Phone

+1 202 637 4820

Fax

+1 202 637 5910

Email

daniel.mader@hoganlovells.com

Languages

English

Practices

Antitrust and Competition

Industries

Life Sciences and Health Care

TMT

Education and admissions

Education

J.D., Washington University in St. Louis, cum laude, 2018

B.B.A., The University of Georgia, cum laude, 2014

Memberships

Member, Section of Antitrust Law, American Bar Association

Bar admissions and qualifications

District of Columbia

Georgia

Court admissions

U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Michigan
