

Nikki Ogun

Associate

London

Biography

Nikki Ogun provides business-oriented regulatory advice to a range of businesses across the payments, banking and lending industry. She advises clients on sector-specific regulation including the Consumer Credit Act, the Payment Services Regulation, BCOBS, CONC and MCOB. Nikki also guides clients in the financial services sector on the impact of unfair terms, consumer rights and AML on their businesses.

Nikki uses the in-house experience she gained during her secondment in the consumer finance team of a large retail bank to provide practical and commercial advice to financial services clients. Nikki also gained experience in data protection and financial services disputes during her training contract.

Nikki is passionate about diversity at Hogan Lovells, and in the legal profession more broadly. She is a member of the steering committee of the Hogan Lovells Black and Minority Ethnic (BAME) network, and often volunteers to speak at legal careers events held across the city, particularly those with a diversity focus.

Representative experience

Advising a UK retail bank on practical issues arising from the Consumer Credit Act in the context of their online application journey.
