

Is the UK's post-Brexit approach to platforms and the digital sector starting to emerge?

02 October 2018

The Chancellor of the Exchequer's statements of intent on a digital service tax and competition law reforms reinforce other recent indications that the UK government is looking seriously at making significant changes to the way it approaches online platforms and the so called "tech giants".

Click here to read the full article.

Contacts

Graham Poole

Senior Director
- Economics and Transfer Pricing

> Read the full article online