

Alex-Christian Lesch

Senior Associate

Dusseldorf

Biography

Alex-Christian Lesch focuses on all aspects of patent and utility model law. Within these areas, he advises national and international companies in the context of patent and utility model litigation and the corresponding connections to validity proceedings.

Before joining Hogan Lovells, Alex-Christian already gained experience in the technical field of mechanics, mobile information technology and life sciences.

Alex-Christian studied law at the Ruhr-Universität Bochum where his main focus was the German civil procedure law. During his legal clerkship, he worked for another international law firm in the area of investment protection/energy industry law. Later during his legal clerkship, Alex-Christian already worked at Hogan Lovells in the area of litigation and dispute resolution.

Phone

+49 211 13 68 156

Fax

+49 211 13 68 100

Email

alex-christian.lesch@hoganlovells.com

Languages

English
German

Practices

Intellectual Property
Litigation
Patents

Industries

Automotive and Mobility
Life Sciences and Health Care
TMT

Areas of focus

IP Licensing, Commercialization,
and Technology Transfer

IP Litigation, Arbitration, and Alternative Dispute Resolution

IP Rights in Transactions

Technology Contracts

Education and admissions

Education

Second State Exam in Law, Higher
Regional Court of Hamm, 2015

First State Exam in Law,
Ruhr-Universität Bochum, 2013
