

Vincent Li, Ph.D.

Associate
New York

Biography

Vincent Li uses his background in chemistry to guide life sciences and health care clients through the numerous aspects of patent litigation.

He also has first-hand experience in representing companies in inter partes review proceedings involving compound patents.

While in law school, Vincent was the president and journal staff editor on the Intellectual Property and Technology Forum. Prior to law school, Vincent obtained his doctorate degree in chemistry, where his research was focused on MRI active drug-delivery particles.

Representative experience

Represented a multinational pharmaceutical company in an inter partes review and district court litigation relating to an overactive bladder drug.
