Health Care Alert

The U.S. Supreme Court will hear a near record setting six hours of oral argument over three days next week regarding the constitutionality of the health reform law. Hogan Lovells lawyers have filed amicus briefs on multiple issues in all of the major appellate cases challenging the law and in the Supreme Court, and will be at the Court on each day of argument. Our prior work on the case will allow us to provide insightful analyses, which will be posted on our website immediately following each day of argument.
