

Hunter Davis

Associate

Washington, D.C.

Biography

Hunter Davis focuses her practice on litigation. She began her career at Hogan Lovells as a summer associate in 2018.

Hunter graduated cum laude from Michigan Law, where she served as a notes editor for the Michigan Journal of International Law. While at Michigan, she gained valuable experience as a student attorney for the Civil Criminal Litigation Clinic. Hunter attended Brown University for her undergraduate studies, where she graduated magna cum laude and played Division I ice hockey. While at Brown, Hunter was awarded the Harvey A. Baker Fellowship and Academic All-Ivy honors.

Hunter is passionate about pro bono causes. As a student attorney, she represented victims of human trafficking, helping survivors to obtain Special Immigrant Juvenile Status and expunge convictions that were a direct result of trafficking. She also volunteered at the largest family detention facility in the country, helping dozens of women prepare for credible fear interviews.
