

Alyssa Saviss

Associate

Los Angeles

Biography

Alyssa Saviss utilizes her perceptive and energetic nature to provide innovative solutions to her clients' legal issues. She is involved in a variety of practice areas, including healthcare litigation, automotive litigation, and products liability.

While at UCLA School of Law, Alyssa participated in a variety of pro bono and volunteer legal work. She was a graduate assistant tutor for first-year UCLA law students and a guest high school teacher, with her curriculum focusing on constitutional law. These teaching experiences gave Alyssa the opportunity to expand her knowledge of the most vital law courses in addition to improving her ability to communicate the intricacies of the laws to those unfamiliar with them. Alyssa is dedicated to devoting time and attention to facilitate effective communication of her pragmatic problem-solving between her and her clients.

Previously, Alyssa was a summer associate at Hogan Lovells and also worked as a law clerk in an employment litigation law firm where she assisted clients in a host of areas, including harassment, discrimination, and wrongful termination. Alyssa currently devotes significant time to pro bono matters.
