

Douglas A. Fellman

Partner

Washington, D.C.

Biography

For more than 25 years, Douglas Fellman has represented public and private companies, boards of directors, board committees, and individual officers and directors regarding government and internal investigations, corporate governance matters, and "sticky issues" that occasionally arise at even the best of companies.

While these matters can be among the most consequential and sensitive for his clients, Doug is known for his sound judgment and strategic thinking, business acumen and practicality, and for the sense of calm and discretion that he brings to the representations he leads.

Doug has represented clients in connection with civil, criminal, and administrative investigations and other proceedings involving the U.S. Department of Justice, Securities and Exchange Commission, and other federal and state departments and agencies, often involving cross-border and other multi-jurisdiction or parallel proceedings.

As Doug works with and defends clients, he often advises company senior management and boards of directors on matters of corporate governance, officer and director fiduciary duty, and interactions with outside auditors and other constituencies, including in
