

Jordan D. Teti

Senior Associate

Los Angeles

Biography

With pragmatic business sense and a keen intellect, Jordan Teti represents clients in complex business litigation matters and other disputes. Former founder of a media technology startup, Jordan understands the realities of clients' business perspectives and has first-hand knowledge of the music, technology, and venture capital sectors.

Jordan's training in corporate finance and his litigation experience relating to complex financial transactions and securities matters also make him adept in advising on valuation disputes, asset sales, fiduciary duties, investigations, and corporate governance issues.

Jordan has represented a variety of U.S. and international clients, including institutional hedge fund investors, venture capital investors, C-level executives of public companies, media companies, and manufacturers.

A graduate of Stanford Law School, Jordan received the Hilmer Oehlmann, Jr. Award for Outstanding Performance in Federal Litigation and served as a teaching assistant for the course. Jordan received his A.B. from Harvard College, summa cum laude with highest honors, in Government, where he received a number of awards for writing and scholarship.
