

China food safety, April issue: “US and China infant formula regulatory framework”

01 April 2018

Since the acrylamide incident, the Chinese government has implemented a series of regulatory changes aiming to restore consumers’ confidence in infant formula on the market. Among these changes, the most notable new requirement is the need for registration of the product formulations.

Read more: China Food Safety April Issue “US and China Infant Formula Regulatory Framework.”

Contacts

Xin Tao

Senior
Associate

> Read the full article online