

CFIUS and Foreign Investment Reviews

When your transaction involves a foreign investment in a U.S. business, you need guidance to assess the national security implications of the transaction.

We advise U.S. companies, foreign multinationals, venture capitalists, and global private equity investors, including those from sensitive countries, on national security reviews before the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States (CFIUS) and foreign investment regulators on a global basis.

Our team includes former government lawyers who understand the opaque inner-workings of CFIUS.

You take matters of national security seriously. So do we. Safeguard your transactions, investments, and business with us.
