

Marta Colonna

Senior Associate

Rome

Biography

The Internet has no territorial boundaries; Marta, thanks to her pan-European education and her experience in this field, is able to work on cross-border projects and provide multi-jurisdictional solutions to online companies. Clients can always count on Marta's experience in facing a broad range of challenges for online operators in Italy and more generally in Europe. She has acquired significant experience on all matters relating to online business and provides 360-degree assistance to clients: from drafting user agreements, privacy policies and compliance policies to assisting clients in day-to-day legal questions, including representation before courts or authorities in proceedings dealing with e-commerce, information technology, consumer protection and data protection issues. Marta is fluent in Italian, English and French and speaks Spanish.

After graduating in law in France and obtaining a Master of Laws in Intellectual Property and Information Technology law in the U.K., Marta, since 2012, has assisted some of the most important players in Italy in the e-commerce and Internet industry and regularly advises clients in commercial matters, data protection, consumer protection, proceedings before Italian Authorities and litigation before national courts.
