Biography

Ryan Adrian works with clients on all aspects of their transactional needs.

Ryan's practice focuses on representing strategic companies, public companies, emerging companies, and private equity sponsors and their portfolio companies. He provides comprehensive advice on acquisitions and investments, divestitures, financings, partnerships, joint ventures, and other strategic considerations.

Additionally, Ryan partners with clients on addressing their general corporate matters that span the life of a company, including formation and governance matters, equity and debt considerations, structuring and negotiation of commercial relationships, and advising on strategic alternatives. His wide range of industry focus includes health care services and technologies, medical devices, consumer products, travel and leisure, entertainment, and technology.

In law school, Ryan served as a senior editor for the Harvard Journal of Law and Public Policy. During the summer following his first year of law school, he worked at a boutique strategic counseling and appellate litigation firm based in Washington, D.C., advising clients on business considerations in connection with the Unlawful Internet Gambling
