

Food Recalls

A food recall is a crisis. But with the right strategy, you can protect your business and mitigate the risk of an enforcement action.

The lawyers at Hogan Lovells can help. We guide you on how to interact with regulators, including USDA, FDA, and state authorities. We determine if, what, and how to recall a product, whether you need to file a report to the Reportable Food Registry, and how best to work with authorities.

We also help you preserve your reputation, keeping all parties within your company aligned.

In addition, we can help find the root cause of the problem and help put procedures in place to keep it from happening again.

A recall is not a time to panic. With Hogan Lovells, you're on the right path.

Practices

Food Law

Crisis Leadership Team
